

ChangeLog 3.x

Upgrading configuration files

This history points the configurations files which were changed between releases. Once the sources installed (see Installation prior 3.30) and the previous configuration recovered (see 04 Upgrading), if one or several files of the changed files have been edited locally, changes should be carefully inspected and added before upgrading the database (ant upgrade).

Changes in version 3.30

Changed the build tool from Apache Ant to Apache Maven 2

Esup-helpdesk is decomposed in several maven modules.

There is an agregagor pom in the project root which aggregate all modules and all modules share the same parent.

- helpdesk-batch contains batch classes
- helpdesk-core contains all classes and part of Spring configuration
- helpdesk-web-jsf-servlet contains src/main/webapp and part of Spring configuration

Changes in version 3.29.11

Changes in configuration files

- /properties/config.properties (diff 3.28 -> 3.29)

Changes in version 3.8.3

Changes in configuration files

- `/properties/config.properties` (diff 3.7 -> 3.8)
- `/properties/dao/dao.xml` (diff 3.7 -> 3.8)

Changes in `/properties/config.properties`:

- Properties `hibernate.connection.url`, `hibernate.connection.username` and `hibernate.connection.password` are not used any more and should be renamed `hibernate.connection.jdbc.url`, `hibernate.connection.jdbc.username` and `hibernate.connection.jdbc.password`, for instance:

```
hibernate.connection.jdbc.url=jdbc:mysql://localhost/helpdesk hibernate.connection.jdbc.username=admin
hibernate.connection.jdbc.password=secret
```

* To rely on a connection pool (defined at Tomcat level for instance), use (replace `jdbc/esup-helpdesk` by the name of your own data source):

hibernate.useJndi=true
hibernate.connection.jndi.datasource=jdbc/esup-helpdesk
```

* To use JDBC even from web requests, use:

hibernate.useJndi=false
